

Lawyers from Kingsford Legal Centre (KLC) can provide you with free legal advice and assistance in hospital.

Prince of Wales Hospital and Eastern Suburbs Mental Health Service have a Health Justice Partnership with KLC. This means that lawyers from KLC are funded by the Government to give free legal assistance to inpatients and outpatients about a broad range of legal problems.

KLC lawyers are expert lawyers who understand that legal problems can have a big impact on your health. We also know that health problems can result in legal problems. Our job is to try and help you work through these legal problems so that you can focus on getting well.

About Kingsford Legal Centre

KLC is a community legal centre and also part of the Law Faculty at the University of NSW. We receive funding to provide advice through a Health Justice Partnership by the Community Legal Centres Program administered by Legal Aid NSW.

We give free legal advice on most legal issues. We can also represent you in some matters.

We are independent from the hospital and anything you tell us is confidential. We will not tell the hospital anything about your legal problem unless you ask us to.

What can KLC help with?

- > Fines
- > Domestic violence
- > Credit and Debt
- > Centrelink
- > Tenancy and housing
- > Trouble with the police
- > Victims compensation
- > Discrimination
- > Employment
- > Consumer and contract problems
- > Future planning documents including Power of Attorney and Enduring Guardianship documents

What we cannot help with

There are some areas of law we cannot give advice about. If we can't help you ourselves, we can help you find the right legal service. Areas that we cannot give advice about include:

- > Personal injury
- > Medical negligence
- > Immigration

If you would like to speak to a lawyer

You can ask your social worker or another staff member to make a referral to us.

You can phone us on (02) 9385 9566.

Email us at hjp@unsw.edu.au.

We currently come to the hospital weekly. However, if your appointment is more urgent, we will either arrange to come outside of those times or speak to you on the phone.

Our lawyers can come and see patients at their bedside or will make an appointment to help outpatients at our Centre, at one of our community outreaches or by phone. We work flexibly, so we are easy to access.
